Manager Comment

Global markets drifted higher at the start of November but once again COVID-19 concerns later in the month caused a reversal of risk appetite and resulted in most equity markets closing lower for the month, surprisingly excluding South Africa.

The latest variant (Omicron) discovered late in the month weighed on global equity markets, which ended the month in negative territory. However, due to the rand falling sharply, SA investors experienced positive returns in global equities. The MSCI World Index closed 2.3% lower month-on-month (m/m) in USD and 3% in ZAR. US stocks finished the month in the red, with US bank stocks among the worst performers as the S&P 500 (US$) closed the month 0.70% down. European equities closed the month on an even weaker note following a resurgence in COVID-19 cases; the Euro Stoxx 50(€) was down 4.30%.

Emerging equity markets continued to lag developed market peers, as the MSCI Emerging Market Index returned -4.14% m/m in USD and 1.06% in ZAR. Chinese equities struggled once again, although Russia was comfortably the worst performing major, on news that a build-up of Russian troops on the Ukraine border may reignite geopolitical tensions.

The South African equity market was one of the few global exchanges to end the month in the "green". The FTSE/JSE All Share Index closed at 4.47% higher m/m, with gold miners the star performers.

All major sectors finished the month stronger for November. Resources led the pack once again at 6.77% m/m, on the back of strong gains from mining shares. Industrials and Financials closed the month at 6.44% and 4.59% higher respectively. Bonds recovered slightly after a few months of negative returns, as the All Bond Index (ALBI) closed 0.66% higher m/m. SA listed property also got back to winning ways, closing the month 2.16% up, while cash (STeF) delivered a moderate return of 0.32%. South African growth managers (5.56% m/m) outperformed value managers (1.91% m/m) for the second consecutive month.

The ZAR continued to lose ground against most major currencies, with concerns over the present Omicron variant in South Africa contributing to its downfall. The ZAR lost as much as 5.14%, 2.47%, 1.72% and 0.42% against the USD, euro, sterling, and Japanese yen respectively.
